

Comedy Slated For Additional Performances

With the first two week ends of Hampton Players' successful production, "The Seven Year Itch," now a memory, the players are looking forward to more performances this week end and next.

The show calls for a series of dream sequences, in which Edward Sherman (played by Dick Miller, formerly of Torrance) sees himself as God's gift to women, all of them femmes fatales. Tricky lighting cues, offstage voices and "dream" music, were arranged by director Jim Reeves and his assistant, George Hocutt, both of Hollywood Riviera.

Dick Miller, the befuddled husband, left to his own devices while his wife and son go to the beach for the summer. Connie Wills, as "The Girl Upstairs" fills the bill as the beautiful model who is at naive and

Jack Drake, also a recent Torrance resident is the guffural psychiatrist, Dr. Brubaker, and Pat Rogers of Hollywood Riviera, is Richard's wife. The femmes fatales are played by Jean Snyder, Marie Denn and Jeanne Kluga. Neil Werner is Tom Mackenzie, friend of Richard's wife, and Keith Homer Snook does a convincing job in his first stage appearance as Richard's six year old son.

Hampton's horseshoe theatre, at 129 Pacific Ave., Redondo Beach, provides comfortable viewing for all. Tickets for Nov. 29 and 30 and Dec. 6 and 7 are available at the box office.

Elks to Conduct Memorial Rites Here on Sunday

Torrance Lodge 1948 of the B.P.O. Elks will hold its annual memorial services at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 1, at the Torrance Elks lodge, 1951 Carson St.

The Grand Lodge of the order of Elks has decreed that the first Sunday in December shall be known as Elks' Memorial Sunday. On this day, all over the country, Elks will gather at their respective lodges and pay tribute to the memory of the departed brothers.

This is one program sponsored by the order of Elks that is open to the public. The members of the Torrance lodge cordially invite the public to attend this inspiring and informative program as their guests.

GOLD RUSH

During Australia's gold rush the country's population increased from 411,100 in 1850 to more than 1,100,000 in 1880.

Response by cities and counties to the Community Mental Health Services Act, which became effective two months ago, has already exceeded the most optimistic expectations of those who supported this measure in the last session of the Legislature.

Under this act, communities desiring to establish clinics on the local level may obtain state assistance of 50 per cent for local programs designed to prevent and combat mental illness.

Both the city and county of Los Angeles and the city of Long Beach have already taken steps to expand facilities, and some 20 other localities have applied for aid in establishing community mental health services for the first time.

Get Early Stages

The primary purpose of the new program is to get at mental illness in its early stages and to treat patients who are living in a home atmosphere, rather than to wait for the more aggravated stages of such disorders. The affected patients must be removed to a mental hospital usually far from home and family.

It is specifically stated in the act that "services to individuals shall be rendered only upon voluntary application," and thus any fear of compulsion is eliminated at the start.

Present estimates are that state supported clinics will provide help to persons with mental or emotional problems for approximately $5 a visit, although it could be more or less depending upon the ability to pay.

Clinics Needed

Major services will consist of out-patient psychiatric clinics for those who are unable to obtain private care, and in-patient psychiatric services in general hospitals and non-profit psychiatric hospitals which are affiliated with general hospitals. The individual programs will be administered locally.

One of the highlights in the discussion that accompanied the enactment of this legislation in the 1957 Session was the appearance before both houses of the Legislature of Dr. Karl Menninger, whose Menninger Clinic in Kansas has pioneered in this field.

Among other factors in favor of such a program, Dr. Menninger pointed out that the number of patients in mental hospitals declined substantially under a similar program in realized an eventual saving as a result of earlier, preventive treatment on the community level.

Six-Year Study

Although our own program

as finally enacted had the support of all public health and medical groups, it was by no means a simple project, and under interim study for six years before a formula was evolved that was satisfactory to all concerned.

In addition to this statewide program, Los Angeles County residents will also benefit from the new Neuro-Psychiatric Clinic to be added to the medical facilities at UCLA. This was a happy to be able, at the last session, to obtain the enactment of the final step needed to permit an early start on the building which will house this much-needed service.

Constitution Candidate to Appear Here

Col. William P. Gale, 41, Constitution Park candidate for Governor of California, will speak in the South Bay next Tuesday, Dec. 3, when he appears at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 214 Ave. I, Redondo Beach at an 8 p.m. meeting.

During the Redondo talk, Col. Gale will outline the historical evolution of the Constitution and will touch on the overburden of modern taxation, influences of certain philosophies on American education, and the dangers of internal subversion, according to Ray Anderson, local chairman.

Col. Gale, who must secure a party registration of 50,000 or a petition of 500,000 to get his name on the California ballot, will also appear on the Tom Duggan Show tonight on Channel 13, Anderson said.
